KENYON AND OWEN NOW TRYING TO GET AGREEMENT ON RESERVATIONS

WASHINGTON, January 14.—An effort to bring about a non-partisan action looking towards ratification of the peace treaty by compromise was started today by Senators Kenyon, Republican and Owens, Democrat.

These senators have undertaken to call a conference of all friends of the treaty without respect to party for the purpose of seeing whether it will be possible to agree on reservations which 64 senators may be willing to support.

Senator Kenyon agreed to name eight Republican senators who will participate in such a conference and Senator Owens is expected to supply eight Democratic senators. It is planned to have the sixteen senators formulate the call for the conference and to direct its activities along lines that might lead to a compromise.

Preliminary to issuing the call Senator Kenyon and Owens decided that it would be better not to have Senators Lodge, Hitchcock and Underwood take part in the conference. The presence of these senators, they explained, might complicate the effort towards a compromise by injecting partisanship and rivalry.

When Senator Lodge learned what Senator Kenyon and Owens were planning he made the same reply that he has to all those who have suggested the possibility of effecting a compromise, namely: "Let us see them get 64 votes."

Senator Kenyon believes that a great deal may be accomplished by the proposed conference. He thinks that it will be possible for 64 senators to get together on reservations which will not be too much of a compromise of the principles embodied in the Lodge reservations.

Senator Owens is of the same opinion, although he did meet with a sharp rebuff when he approached Senator Lodge, who asked whether he would make any surrender on Article Ten reservation. Senator Lodge replied that he would not agree to any modifications of this particular reservation, for the reason that it represented the maximum concession which the majority of the senate was willing to make in the matter of assuming any obligation to use military force in behalf of foreign nations.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15.—Wm. J. Bryan arrived at the capital today to take personal charge of his campaign for the treaty ratification or any possible reservations slated. Bryan at once went into conference with Senator McCumber, of Tenn.

OPERATORS CHARGE U. M. W. OF A. IS TRYING TO FORCE NATIONALIZATION THRU DEMANDS ON COAL COMMISSION

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15.—United Mine Workers' officials who will present their wage demands to the Federal Coal Commission are trying to involve that body in such long drawn out litigation making such a complex situation that a foundation may be laid in the nature of demands for the nationalization of mines, the operators' representatives believed today.

"The taking up and sifting of questions introduced by the mine workers would be an unending task," said Ralph Trees, attorney for the operators. "If the commission would go into one-half of the questions brought up by the miners the session would last for months." Trees declared the commission could deal with the situation as a whole rather than go into an indefinite inquiry with a mass of details.

SEVEN MILLION POUNDS OF GAME KILLED DURING 1919

Some mighty interesting figures on the estimated amount of game killed in 1919, gathered from the reports of the postoffice, were made public in the meetings, and shows an increase all along the line. The following figures are estimates, of course, but it has been the policy of the commission to arrive at a minimum estimate and err on the safe side. And the most cheering feature of the 1919 crop is that there's plenty of game left. Indeed, more than ever before, with the possible exception of the grouse, which in some sections are reported scarce. The 1919 figures, compared with the 1918 figures, follow:

1918	1919
1,734	2,013
387	472
1,347,000	2,719,879
155,000	439,100
26,000	34,000
2,751	5,181
71	287,001
2,909	15,450
11,715	10,319
131	575
18,861	27,769
12,289	28,714
Species not reported in 1918,uffed grouse were closed this year.
Total weight of entire kill for 1919 was 7,251,261 pounds.

The above does not include 23,789 shore birds of various kinds nor 175,000 blackbirds legally killed. There were also 119 male hares and 207 deer illegally killed during the season.

There's one especially interesting feature of the above report, and that is that 15,658 ring-necked pheasants were brought for planting, so it must be true that they've been and increased for there are many left after the hunting season ended. The deer crop just falls short of the 2,000 mark and in fact probably went well over the mark, as it is hardly possible for the postoffice to check up every legal buck.

There's one unfortunate feature of the past season, and that is the increase of hunting accidents. The total was larger than for the four preceding years, but as many more hunters than ever before were abroad, approximately 600,000 counting all of them, an increase is natural. The following table explains the situation:

	1915	1916	1917	1918	1919
Fatal	29	30	26	19	35

ARMY OFFICER HERE TO ARRANGE FOR HERO DECORATION

A representative of the General Recruiting Service visited Clearfield recently for the purpose of arranging for the formal presentation to Ex-Sergeant Ralph A. Whitman, Company D, 312th Inf., of the Distinguished Service Cross awarded him by War Department G. O. No. 98 August 2nd, 1919, the citation of which reads as follows:

"Ralph A. Whitman (Army serial No. 1773801), Sergeant Company D, 312th Infantry, for extraordinary heroism in action at Grampian, France, October 18, 1918. While in detachment had become disorganized by sniper and machine-gun fire, Sergeant Whitman, without regard for personal danger, reorganized his command, and by his gallant example led his men against the enemy machine-gun position, capturing it and bringing the gun back to our lines."

In view of Sergeant Whitman's sickness and confinement to the Clearfield Hospital it was decided to make delivery of the Cross to his father, Horace S. Whitman and arrange for the formal presentation at a later date.

GRAMPIAN MAN CHARGED WITH MURDER

Alvin Rowles Accused Of Hitting Fellow Employee Causing His Death

FOUGHT OVER BALE OF STRAW

Kay Federa, aged about 40 years, a resident of Grampian, died at the Clearfield hospital yesterday evening about 10:20 o'clock as the result of injuries received in a fight with a fellow employee at the Stronach plant of the Harrison-Walker Refractories Company, located about two miles below Grampian.

About 8 o'clock yesterday morning Federa, a naturalized Russian, and Alvin Rowles, a young man of about 26 years, son of William Rowles, got into a dispute at their work and came to blows. Rowles, seizing a brick, struck his adversary a terrific blow on the left side of the head just over the temple. Federa fell to the floor as though shot, the brick crushing a hole in his head, and severely shattering the skull.

Dr. J. A. Miller, of Grampian, was quickly summoned, but the fatal nature of Federa's injury was apparent at a glance. Dr. Miller rendered first aid and made the badly hurt man as comfortable as possible, and he was brought to the Clearfield Hospital on the 1:15 o'clock Pennsylvania train.

Following his arrival Dr. Stewart performed an operation on Federa's head in the hope of affording him some relief. A large section of skull which had been pressing upon the brain was removed but the efforts of the physician were unavailing and death ensued.

Federa was a married man and leaves a widow and one child. He was a quiet inoffensive man and good citizen generally. He was intelligent, fairly well educated and spoke several different languages.

District Attorney Arnold was notified of the affair and Sheriff Garman went to Grampian yesterday evening. After a brief investigation the Sheriff made information against Alvin Rowles before Squire John Y. Rafferty and a warrant for the young man's arrest on a charge of murder was issued. The Sheriff went to the home of W. G. Rowles, father of the accused and placed Alvin Rowles under arrest at 9 o'clock.

Young Rowles alleges the killing was done in self defense. He says there had been bad blood between Federa and himself for some time, and while they had several word battles they never came to blows before yesterday morning. The men were engaged as brick huckers and were engaged in loading brick on cars on the railroad cars when the fatal encounter occurred. The trouble started over some straw used in packing the brick. Rowles says he got a bale of straw and placed it in a car on the Pennsylvania and then when his crew were ordered to load a car on the R. & P. road he took the remaining straw from the Pennsylvania to the R. & P. car and Federa charged him with taking his straw. He says they had several "showing matches" over the straw and that Federa who was a big, powerful man, chased him out of the kiln twice and threatened to kill him that the first time he charged him some distance and on the second occasion was pursuing him and he was threatening to kill him and that he had one hand in his pocket. He thought Federa was going to shoot him and in fear of his life struck him. He denies using a brick and said he let the men with his life.

FEAR OF REVOLUTION HALTS TRIAL OF HUNS

WAR LORDS TO GET TEMPORARY RESpite BECAUSE OF UNSTABLE CONDITIONS IN GERMANY

BERLIN RIOTS NOT YET QUELLED

PARIS, Jan. 15.—The big three this afternoon met in secret session to discuss the extradition of the former Kaiser it was learned authoritatively.

Owing to the conditions in Germany brought about by the rioting and strikes the Allies were seriously considering withholding presentation of the list of German guilty who will be demanded and tried before the Allied tribunal. The demand for the Germans at this time it was said might precipitate further outbreaks increasing the danger to the present German government which the Allies are anxious to have remain in control.

Unofficially it was understood that the Allies have abandoned their plan of trying the accused Germans before an Allied court martial and will ask Germany to try them before her Supreme court.

LONDON, Jan. 15.—Rioting was renewed in Berlin yesterday, dispatches received here early today said. The military authorities have ordered additional reinforcements to protect the city. The toll of fighting in front of the Reichstag, it was semi-officially announced, was 42 killed and 105 wounded. Some eye witnesses, according to the dispatch, thought the total casualties might be considerably larger.

Dispatches received in official quarters here indicated today that the out break Tuesday was not of a revolutionary nature although some feared that a revolution might develop.

To look one's face and feel one's heart to enjoy an inside both each morning to live from the system the previous day's waste, some fermentations and poisonous toxins left in it, absorbed into the blood, just as food, when it turns into blood, is absorbed into the blood. Indigestible material in the form of fishes, so the food and drink taken and eat leave in the alimentary organs a certain amount of indigestible material, which is eliminated, feces, gas and urine. But the blood is not purified of blood through the very dirty blood is intended to suck in only pure blood to exist in the body.

If you want to see the flow of living blood in your veins, to see your skin grow better and clear up, to be able to drink every morning, a glass of lime glass of hot water with a teaspoon of limestone phosphate in it, will be harmless means of winning the water nature and the body, the blood, the liver, kidneys and bowels, and the heart, sweetening and purifying the entire body.

Consequently, first, before putting more food into the stomach.

Girls and women with yellow skin, fever spots, rashes or pallid complexion, have their body water in a condition that they are badly kept. Others who are healthy and have millions of cells, and sounder condition should begin this purifier of hot water drinking and use instead of very potent results in one or two weeks of water drinking, or a dash of these pure salts very little at the drug store is sufficient to demonstrate that it is safe and hot water comes, purifies and takes the skin as the outside of hot water and the impurities absorbed into the blood, and the body is so healthy that it can take in a small amount of food and drink, and the body is healthy and the blood is pure.

THIS COLUMN FOR BOYS AND GIRLS AND PARENTS

"I Should Worry"
BY MOLLIE PRICE COOK

"I should worry if it rains or sleets or snows. I can keep healthy anyhow." So saying, the Up-To-The-Minute Athletic Girl opened her bedroom window and began her morning exercises. First, with hands straight at sides, she raised and lowered herself on her toes 20 times. Then she raised her hands high over her head and without bending knees, brought her upper tips down to the floor ten times. The tenth time, just for good luck, she touched her palms to the floor and held them there.

Then she tried a Floor Push-Up. 1st position: Flat on floor, face down, palms of hands on floor at sides, arms bent, and feet touching. Body raised straight from floor, palms of hands, arms straight. The body is raised up and down by force of the arms and shoulder muscles. This must be done without bending back, keeping body rigid, and should be performed from five to twenty times, depending upon the girl. At first it is difficult; then two or three times will be tried, but gradually enough strength will be developed so the exercise can be done many times without great effort.

Picture an athletic girl in bloomers and muddy directing family exercises:

In the living room. There are brother Bob and father and mother flat on their backs with arms against sides, raising their legs straight in the air without touching their hands to the floor. A simple enough exercise, but really more difficult than it looks. Brother Bob and the Athletic Girl can bend their legs until the toes touch the floor back of their heads. Mother and Father are trying hard to do the same thing. Father says, "If every person would do this little stunt several times every day, there would be no sick bodies."

Exercising indoors does not have the snap and dash of out-door fun, but it is muscle-building and health-giving—and it furnishes an valuable chance for intensive training as formal gymnastics.

The Basketball Guard
BY H. O. (PAT) PAGE

The crowd seldom gives any credit for victory to the guards while it commonly explains a defeat by declaring that the guarding was loose. Nevertheless a coach appreciates a good defensive player. It is a hard proposition for your opponents to win if your defense is so perfect they can't shoot any baskets.

Some teams are coached in what is known as the five-man-defense game, in which every man on the team plays a purely defensive game as soon as the opponents get the ball. But on the typical team the bulk of the defensive work is done by the guards.

A guard should be fast so that he can cover his opponent quickly. He must be able to start quickly and stop quickly. If he starts slowly, his opponent will be away with the ball before he can get to him and if he stops slowly, he will be liable to over-rush or over-jump his opponent and thus give him a free shot at the basket. A guard should not be clumsy. Clumsiness leads to fouling which is one of the main things to be avoided. A guard should develop the ability to intercept passes and get rid of the ball in a quick, accurate pass. A field goal is a mighty dangerous thing, making necessary a jump play in general. The stationary guard plays back under the basket rarely going out from it farther than seven yards. He should stay between his nearest opponent and the basket. This he is in a position to beat him in getting rebounds and not prevent follow-up shots. Also, he can meet the speedy opponent coming into the basket for a short shot. In this manner, he forces his opponents to take long shots. Then it becomes his duty to rush and hurry the long shooter in his territory. His duties require him to be big and husky with a long reach and jumping ability.

The floor guard should have speed, endurance and ability to run the floor. He must be clever at dribbling, dodging and shooting baskets. He plays the ball rather than his territory or his man, although he must cover one of the opposing forwards when the ball is in the possession of the opponent. He digs the ball out of dangerous territory and dribbles or passes it into his forward territory. He tries for a basket whenever the opportunity presents itself, thus making the fourth possible scoring man on his team.

KENYON AND OWEN NOW TRYING TO GET AGREEMENT ON RESERVATIONS

WASHINGTON, January 14.—An effort to bring about a non-partisan action looking towards ratification of the peace treaty by compromise was started today by Senators Kenyon, Republican and Owens, Democrat.

These senators have undertaken to call a conference of all friends of the treaty without respect to party for the purpose of seeing whether it will be possible to agree on reservations which 64 senators may be willing to support.

Senator Kenyon agreed to name eight Republican senators who will participate in such a conference and Senator Owens is expected to supply eight Democratic senators. It is planned to have the sixteen senators formulate the call for the conference and to direct its activities along lines that might lead to a compromise.

Preliminary to issuing the call Senator Kenyon and Owens decided that it would be better not to have Senators Lodge, Hitchcock and Underwood take part in the conference. The presence of these senators, they explained, might complicate the effort towards a compromise by injecting partisanship and rivalry.

When Senator Lodge learned what Senator Kenyon and Owens were planning he made the same reply that he has to all those who have suggested the possibility of effecting a compromise, namely: "Let us see them get 64 votes."

Senator Kenyon believes that a great deal may be accomplished by the proposed conference. He thinks that it will be possible for 64 senators to get together on reservations which will not be too much of a compromise of the principles embodied in the Lodge reservations.

Senator Owens is of the same opinion, although he did meet with a sharp rebuff when he approached Senator Lodge, who asked whether he would make any surrender on Article Ten reservation. Senator Lodge replied that he would not agree to any modifications of this particular reservation, for the reason that it represented the maximum concession which the majority of the senate was willing to make in the matter of assuming any obligation to use military force in behalf of foreign nations.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15.—Wm. J. Bryan arrived at the capital today to take personal charge of his campaign for the treaty ratification or any possible reservations stated. Bryan at once went into conference with Senator McCumber, of Tenn.

OPERATORS CHARGE U. M. W. OF A. IS TRYING TO FORCE NATIONALIZATION THRU DEMANDS ON COAL COMMISSION

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15.—United Mine Workers' officials who will present their wage demands to the Federal Coal Commission are trying to involve that body in such long drawn out litigation making such a complex situation that a foundation may be laid in the nature of demands for the nationalization of mines, the operators' representatives believed today.

"The taking up and sifting of questions introduced by the mine workers would be an unending task," said Ralph Trees, attorney for the operators. "If the commission would go into one-half of the questions brought up by the miners the session would last for months." Trees declared the commission could deal with the situation as a whole rather than go into an indefinite inquiry with a mass of details.

SEVEN MILLION POUNDS OF GAME KILLED DURING 1919

Some mighty interesting figures on the estimated amount of game killed in 1919, gathered from the reports of the postoffice, were made public in the meetings, and shows an increase all along the line. The following figures are estimates, of course, but it has been the policy of the commission to arrive at a minimum estimate and err on the safe side. And the most cheering feature of the 1919 crop is that there's plenty of game left. Indeed, more than ever before, with the possible exception of the grouse, which in some sections are reported scarce. The 1919 figures, compared with the 1918 figures, follow:

1918	1919
1,734	2,013
387	472
1,347,000	2,719,879
155,000	439,100
26,000	34,000
2,751	5,181
71	287,001
2,909	15,450
11,715	10,319
131	575
18,861	27,769
12,289	28,714
Species not reported in 1918,uffed grouse were closed that year.
Total weight of entire kill for 1919 was 7,251,261 pounds.

The above does not include 23,789 sharp birds of various kinds nor 175,000 blackbirds legally killed. There were also 119 male hares and 207 deer illegally killed during the season.

There's one especially interesting feature of the above report, and that is that 15,658 ring-necked pheasants were brought for planting, so it must be true that they've been and increased for there are many left after the hunting season ended. The deer crop just falls short of the 2,000 mark and in fact probably went well over the mark, as it is hardly possible for the prospectors to check up every legal buck.

There's one unfortunate feature of the past season, and that is the increase of hunting accidents. The total was larger than for the four preceding years, but as many more hunters than ever before were abroad, approximately 600,000 counting all of them, an increase is natural. The following table explains the situation:

1915	1916	1917	1918	1919
Fatal	29	30	26	19
Partial	29	30	26	19

ARMY OFFICER HERE TO ARRANGE FOR HERO DECORATION

A representative of the General Recruiting Service visited Clearfield recently for the purpose of arranging for the formal presentation to Ex-Sergeant Ralph A. Whitman, Company D, 312th Inf., of the Distinguished Service Cross awarded him by War Department G. O. No. 98 August 2nd, 1919, the citation of which reads as follows:

"Ralph A. Whitman (Army serial No. 1773801), Sergeant Company D, 312th Infantry, for extraordinary heroism in action at Grampian, France, October 18, 1918. While in detachment had become disorganized by sniper and machine-gun fire, Sergeant Whitman, without regard for personal danger, reorganized his command, and by his gallant example led his men against the enemy machine-gun position, capturing it and bringing the gun back to our lines."

In view of Sergeant Whitman's illness and confinement to the Clearfield Hospital it was decided to make delivery of the Cross to his father, Horace S. Whitman and arrange for the formal presentation at a later date.

GRAMPIAN MAN CHARGED WITH MURDER

Alvin Rowles Accused Of Hitting Fellow Employee Causing His Death

FOUGHT OVER BALE OF STRAW

Kay Federa, aged about 40 years, a resident of Grampian, died at the Clearfield hospital yesterday evening about 10:20 o'clock as the result of injuries received in a fight with a fellow employee at the Stronach plant of the Harrison-Walker Refractories Company, located about two miles below Grampian.

About 8 o'clock yesterday morning Federa, a naturalized Russian, and Alvin Rowles, a young man of about 26 years, son of William Rowles, got into a dispute at their work and came to blows. Rowles, seizing a brick, struck his adversary a terrific blow on the left side of the head just over the temple. Federa fell to the floor as though shot, the brick crushing a hole in his head, and severely shattering the skull.

Dr. J. A. Miller, of Grampian, was quickly summoned, but the fatal nature of Federa's injury was apparent at a glance. Dr. Miller rendered first aid and made the badly hurt man as comfortable as possible, and he was brought to the Clearfield Hospital on the 1:15 o'clock Pennsylvania train.

Following his arrival Dr. Stewart performed an operation on Federa's head in the hope of affording him some relief. A large section of skull which had been pressing upon the brain was removed but the efforts of the physician were unavailing and death ensued.

Federa was a married man and leaves a widow and one child. He was a quiet inoffensive man and good citizen generally. He was intelligent, fairly well educated and spoke several different languages.

District Attorney Arnold was notified of the affair and Sheriff Garman went to Grampian yesterday evening. After a brief investigation the Sheriff made information against Alvin Rowles before Squire John Y. Rafferty and a warrant for the young man's arrest on a charge of murder was issued. The Sheriff went to the home of W. G. Rowles, father of the accused and placed Alvin Rowles under arrest at 9 o'clock.

Young Rowles alleges the killing was done in self defense. He says there had been bad blood between Federa and himself for some time, and while they had several word battles they never came to blows before yesterday morning. The men were engaged as brick makers and were engaged in loading brick on cars on the railroad cars when the fatal encounter occurred. The trouble started over some straw used in packing the brick. Rowles says he got a bale of straw and placed it in a car on the Pennsylvania and then when his crew were ordered to load a car on the R. & P. road he took the remaining straw from the Pennsylvania to the R. & P. car and Federa charged him with taking his straw. He says they had several "showing matches" over the straw and that Federa who was a big, powerful man, chased him out of the kiln twice and threatened to kill him that the first time he charged him some distance and on the second occasion was pursuing him and threatening to kill him and that he had one hand in his pocket. He thought Federa was going to shoot him and in fear of his life struck him. He denies using a brick and said he let the men with his life.

FEAR OF REVOLUTION HALTS TRIAL OF HUNS

WAR LORDS TO GET TEMPORARY RESpite BECAUSE OF UNSTABLE CONDITIONS IN GERMANY

BERLIN RIOTS NOT YET QUELLED

PARIS, Jan. 15.—The big three this afternoon met in secret session to discuss the extradition of the former Kaiser it was learned authoritatively.

Owing to the conditions in Germany brought about by the rioting and strikes the Allies were seriously considering withholding presentation of the list of German guilty who will be demanded and tried before the Allied tribunal. The demand for the Germans at this time it was said might precipitate further outbreaks increasing the danger to the present German government which the Allies are anxious to have remain in control.

Unofficially it was understood that the Allies have abandoned their plan of trying the accused Germans before an Allied court martial and will ask Germany to try them before her Supreme court.

Dispatches received in official quarters here indicated today that the out break Tuesday was not of a revolutionary nature although some feared that a revolution might develop.

Oyster Coming Right Along

Even the break-up of the latter part of last week did not affect the oyster situation to any extent. Boats are still idle, or nearly so, but we're getting our regular oyster shipments—not as large as usual—but enough to go round.

They're good oysters, too.

THIS COLUMN FOR BOYS AND GIRLS AND PARENTS

Red Cheeks and Pep

"I Should Worry"

BY MOLLIE PRICE COOK

"I should worry if it rains or sleets or snows. I can keep healthy any day."

So saying, the Up-To-The-Minute Athletic Girl opened her bedroom window and began her morning exercises. First, with hands straight at sides, she raised and lowered herself on her toes 20 times. Then she raised her hands high over her head and without bending knees, brought her upper tips down to the floor ten times. The tenth time, just for good luck, she touched her palms to the floor and held them there.

Then she tried a Floor Push-Up. 1st position: Flat on floor, face down, palms of hands on floor at sides, arms bent, and feet touching. 2nd position: Body raised straight from floor, palms of hands, arms straight. The body is raised up and down by force of the arms and shoulder muscles. This must be done without bending back, keeping body rigid, and should be performed from five to twenty times, depending upon the girl.

At first it is difficult; then two or three times will be tiring, but gradually enough strength will be developed so the exercise can be done many times without great effort.

Picture an athletic girl in bloomers and muddy directing family exercises:

In the living room. There are brother Bob and father and mother flat on their backs with arms against sides, raising their legs straight in the air without touching their hands to the floor. A simple enough exercise, but really more difficult than it looks. Brother Bob and the Athletic Girl can bend their legs until the toes touch the floor back of their heads. Mother and Father are trying hard to do the same thing. Father says, "If every person would do this little stunt several times every day, there would be no sick bodies."

Exercising indoors does not have the snap and dash of out-door fun, but it is muscle-building and health-giving—and it furnishes an valuable chance for intensive training as formal gymnasium.

The Basketball Guard

BY H. O. (PAT) PAGE

The crowd seldom gives any credit for victory to the guards while it commonly explains a defeat by declaring that the guarding was loose. Nevertheless a coach appreciates a good defensive player. It is a hard proposition for your opponents to win if your defense is so perfect they can't shoot any baskets.

Some teams are coached in what is known as the five-man-defense game, in which every man on the team plays a purely defensive game as soon as the opponents get the ball. But on the typical team the bulk of the defensive work is done by the guards.

A guard should be fast so that he can cover his opponent quickly. He must be able to start quickly and stop quickly. If he starts slowly, his opponent will be away with the ball before he can get to him and if he stops slowly, he will be liable to over-rush or over-jump his opponent and thus give him a free shot at the basket. A guard should not be clumsy. Clumsiness leads to fouling which is one of the main things to be avoided. A guard should develop the ability to intercept passes and get rid of the ball in a quick, accurate pass. A field ball making necessary a jump play in general territory is a mighty dangerous thing.

The stationary guard plays back under the basket rarely going out from it farther than seven yards. He should stay between his nearest opponent and the basket. This he is in a position to beat him in getting rebounds and not prevent follow-up shots. Also, he can meet the speedy opponent coming into the basket for a short shot. In this manner, he forces his opponents to take long shots. Then it becomes his duty to rush and hurry the long shooter in his territory. His duties require him to be big and husky with a long reach and jumping ability.

The floor guard should have speed, endurance and ability to run the floor. He must be clever at dribbling, dodging and shooting baskets. He plays the ball rather than his territory or his man, although he must cover one of the opposing forwards when the ball is in the possession of the opponent.

He digs the ball out of dangerous territory and dribbles or passes it into his forward territory. He tries for a basket whenever the opportunity presents itself, thus making the fourth possible scoring man on his team.
